Information management and publishing solution softkat® was specially developed for the quick, flexible and automated creation of print and web-based publications. The modular tool is easily adapted to suit each individual customer's needs.

A central data base is fed from external systems (e. g. merchandise information system) and with the help of a tool for planning and updating this information. The catalogue is then created by combining the content and layout for the print and web media. This makes it very economical, in particular for follow-up productions.
